

Albert Baikie Memorial Medal & Award

The Albert Baikie Award is given to recognise the best presentation, either oral or poster, at the Annual Scientific Meeting by a new investigator who is a financial member of the Haematology Society of Australia and New Zealand. The winner receives a $5,000 prize and is presented with the Albert Baikie Memorial Medal.

This prestigious award is open to new investigators who were awarded their postgraduate qualification (MSc, FRACP, FRCPA or PhD) within the past 5 years.

Special consideration may be made by Council for those people who wish to apply but who, for other reasons, completed their postgraduate qualification more than 5 years ago.

Conditions

- Applicants must be financial and either full, trainee or associate members of HSANZ by the time of the Meeting. You can download a membership application on the HSANZ website www.hsanz.org.au. Application for the award is as per the Call for Abstracts.
- Only ONE abstract is to be nominated by each applicant;
- Previous winners of the award are ineligible.

All applications will be assessed by a subcommittee of the HSANZ and will be judged on the quality and originality of the work and presentation.

The closing date for applications is 20 September 2020.
